Scale

All Miniatures are 1:50 Scale which is about the same as a 32mm miniature but a much more reliable scale to use.

Material

All miniatures are 3D Printed in Resin. This is a material which has started off as a liquid and been cured using UltraViolet Light.

I supply models in three different types of resin which are listed below.

Grey 'ABS Like' Resin

This is a resin which has been designed to have properties which are like ABS Plastic but it is still a resin. It is much tougher than standard resin and not brittle, that said some of the models have very fine parts and need to still be treated with care even though they are not as fragile.

Standard Resin (usually black)

This is just standard 3D Printing Resin, it is very brittle and easy to break but it is better for models which you are purely wanting as a display piece as it has slightly sharper details especially on the figure base.

Clear Resin

This is standard clear 3D Printing Resin with an amount of clear Tough Resin mixed in. It is still rather brittle and easy to break but if you want to have parts of your model translucent then it is your only choice. It is great for mages where you want the crystal in the staff to look like glass.

Safety

These models are not designed for young children as they are small and can contain sharp parts. Fully cured resin is safe to touch but even cured resin is not food safe or safe for prolonged contact use such as jewellery.
